James Cartlidge is a late-stage PhD candidate at the Central European University (Budapest/Vienna). His thesis interprets Martin Heidegger's philosophy as philosophical anthropology and critically develops its account of 'revelatory moods'. He is currently working as a visiting lecturer at Eötvös Loránd University (Budapest), teaching courses on Heidegger and Poststructuralist philosophy.